- b. If you are the Respondent: You must have the protected person personally served with these forms. This requirement of personal service on the protected person is not a justification for you to violate the terms of the restraining order. You must also serve the Petitioner educational institution officer or employee. Service on the Petitioner may be by mail.
- c. If you are the Petitioner Education Institution Officer or Employee and you are requesting modification or termination other than at the request of the protected person: You must have the protected person personally served with these forms. You must also serve the Respondent. Service on the Respondent may be by mail.
- d If you are the Protected Person: The Respondent and Petitioner educational institution officer or employee may be served with these forms by mail.
- e. The person who serves the forms must fill out either form SV-200, Proof of Personal Service, or form SV-250, Proof of Service of Response by Mail (or both). Have the person who served sign the original. Take the signed original proof-of-service form back to the court clerk for filing or bring it with you to the hearing. For help with personal service, see form SV-200-INFO, What Is "Proof of Personal Service"?
